

Table of Contents

	Page
List of figures
Chapter 1. Introduction	1
Project description	3
Description of the study	6
Chapter 2. Discourse and knowledge	11
Art and fact in archaeology	11
About the many ways of design	15
Design and planning	15
Design and art	16
Design and science	19
The integration of art and science in design	20
Design and language	22
Research method: A project-driven approach	25
Description of method	25
Application of the method	27
Chapter 3. Activity theory
A framework of knowledge	38
The activity	43
The object and the artifact	41
The tools	46
Rules and discourse	46
Community	48
Organization	48
Summary	49
Chapter 4. The activity of art	54
Art as an activity	54
The artist	57
The tools	60
Rules and discourses	63
Community and context	65
The object of art	68
Expressive artifacts	70
Artifacts of expression	71
Art and the shape of history	73
Summary	75
Chapter 5. Art in “Illuminating History: Through the Eyes of Media”	83
Art, archaeology and history	83
A hypermedia archive	86
Some aspects of information	93
Illumination and art: a historical connection	94
From decorated initials into a VRML space	96
How the 3D world was built	97
The 3D gallery	100
Summary	102
Chapter 6. Design as an activity	106
The activity of design	106
Who is the designer?	110
The tools	112

Examples of the representation tools of the designer	115
Knowledge acquisition tools and design	119
Cognitive modelling tools	120
Systems of signs	121
Rules and Discourses	122
Community and context	123
Organization of labor	127
Summary	128
Chapter 7. Design in “Illuminating History: Through the Eyes of Media”	137
Development of the hypermedia archive	137
Audit and information gathering	139
Developing a common language	140
Description of the classification system	140
The classification system: how it works	141
Prototype development	143
Application design and production	144
The interface	144
Content development and organization	148
Introduction and contents section in the archive	149
The research section in the archive	150
The people section	151
The tools section	152
Metaphors and design	153
The metaphor of illumination	154
Summary	155
Chapter 8. Archaeology as an activity	159
The activity of archaeology	159
The archaeologist	163
The archaeologist as a scientist	163
The archaeologist as a craftsperson	165
The archaeologist and the Information Society	166
The archaeological record	167
The record as a textual object	167
Graphics and the record	170
The tools	171
Inscription tools	171
Photography and the record	176
Tools for measuring	177
Methods	177
Rules and discourses	180
Instrumentality and history	180
Community	183
Summary	184
Chapter 9. Archaeology in “Illuminating History: Through the Eyes of Media”	193
Late Iron Age archaeology in Raisio	193
The archaeologist’s contribution	194
Documentation: the use of guidelines	195
Working with the archaeologists	200
Summary	201
Chapter 10. Conclusion	203
Between art, design, and archaeology	204
Bibliography & Appendices	